RE: The Children's Theatre Company

To Whom It May Concern:

As we complete our third school year working together, I am thrilled to recommend Mehr Mansuri and her incredible team at the Children's Theater Company.

Our relationship has been a major asset to the school, providing students not only opportunities for creativity and expression while learning about socially relevant topics, but the Company has integrated a seamless and highly tailored musical theater residency that has awakened our core curriculum and our faculty to rethink the use of the arts as a powerful tool to accelerate learning and receptivity to learning.

The CTC teaching artists and instructors engage our students in the a full multi disciplinary program of drama, dance, music and character education, while guiding them towards self-discipline and responsibility- in each and every area. The culminating performances have offered students, families and the school community a unique opportunity for collaboration along with memories to last a lifetime.

Every school in the United States needs CTC's unique and totally engaging ethical education musical theater program; every academic teacher needs a CTC teaching artist to accompany them to bring their program to life; every parent needs a CTC residency to ensure that their children find their voice, their confidence and moral compass through the power of the arts.

Please do not hesitate to learn more about the Children's Theater Company.

Sincerely,

Ron. Zirin
